USO Date Correction: December 28 (NOT 21)

USO

Our next service date with the USO at Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport is Wednesday, December 28, 2016.

This date is a little different for us. It is later in the year and in the middle of the holiday travel season. We hope and expect that this means we have the opportunity to serve many military personnel and their families as they travel through Atlanta.

We need morning shift and evening shift help. We could also use some help soliciting food donations.

If you would like to volunteer, please contact

Larry Domenico at 404-845-1946 or ldomenico@ mfllaw.com

A 6'3" guard, Conley played college basketball at the University of Kentucky under coach Adolph Rupp. During the 1965-66 season, Conley was a starter on a Kentucky team that also featured future Basketball Hall-of-Famers Pat Riley and Louie Dampier. The Wildcats lost the championship game of that season's NCAA Tournament 72- 65 to Texas Western, and this game was the center of the 2006 film Glory Road. Conley played in the first Kentucky Colonels game of the American Basketball Association before committing to the army. He remained in sports most of his career until his recent retirement. He was a sports broadcaster for 42 years, around 1800 basketball games and 400 baseball games, and worked for CBS, NBC, ABC, ESPN, FOX SPORTS, and various regional sports outlets. He was a radio analyst for Olympic Basketball between 1996 and 2004. He was employed by Converse Rubber Co. General Electric Credit Corp and has served as a board member of Citizens Bank (Ky) for the last 25 years. Larry has been a Dunwoody resident for 38 years. He is married to Lorie.
